FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

MuseToons Go Mobile

Los Angeles artist, Keni and his MuseToons® cartoons have teamed up with England-based Rok Comics. Rok Comics is a major provider of cartoons internationally for mobile phones.

The MuseToons are unique, in that they are created using 3D software and digital paint tools. The motto, 'Start Your Day With a Muse'™ lets you know that you can see a new cartoon daily on the web site, musetoons.com, and soon to be daily for mobile devices.

The MuseToons take a thoughtfully humorous look at current events; politics, race, religion, ecology and many other topics being discussed around the world. Other cartoons of interest document Keni's association with the film and television industry; including cartoons about the contentious Hollywood screen writers strike.

Keni began his career in the motion picture and television industry working as a set builder. He went on to work as a scenic artist, set painter and videographer. He has participated in many art shows and sells internationally. His artwork has been published in Pastel Artist International®, Watercolor Magic magazine®, Topia® (a former international entertainment magazine), and local publications.

When asked about his choice to use 3D software in cartooning, Keni explains, "I've always liked to build things. 3D is a way to combine architecture, sculpture, painting and humor into one image or series of panels." A search of the internet for other cartoons similar to Keni's did not yield any results, so it seems that he is one of the first daily cartoonists to be working in 3D.
